

Stainless Steel Bowl Urinal Divider

Product Code: BUDIV

The School Toilets stainless steel bowl urinal divider has been designed to offer privacy for users when installed between wall mounted bowl urinals. The robust stainless steel construction offers vandal resistance and will match stainless steel bowl urinals or make a nice contrast between china urinals.

Many men, especially younger men and children feel embarrassed by using the toilet around people of their own gender. Paruresis, or 'shy bladder syndrome', is a form of social anxiety that prevents sufferers from being able to go to the toilet in the presence of others. It's thought to affect around 4 million people in the UK, although the real total may be far higher - by its very nature, paruresis tends to be underreported. Offering privacy in the toilet should be considered when planning washrooms, and the urinal divider should be considered when installing bowl urinals.
